

SofCover® KleenCover® Mattress Protector and Box Spring Protector
MATTRESS TURNING INSTRUCTIONS

When the KleenCover® or SofCover® mattress encasement has been properly installed it completely encases the mattress with the laminate side (shiny side) toward the mattress and the zipper is closed and is locked on the small hook to ensure complete closure and prevent unintended opening.

When the mattress needs to be turned you must locate where the handles of the mattress are positioned. Grip the fabric of the cover and the handle on the mattress together so the weight of the mattress is supported by the handles and not just the mattress protector and then move the mattress as needed.

The mattress protector cannot support the weight of the mattress and may tear or split at the zipper if it is not handled properly, as stated above.

Box springs, similarly, should not be turned or moved by grasping only the box spring protector. The box spring should be lifted by its frame and turned. Failure to do so may tear the box spring protector.
